BISBEE, ARIZ., OCT. 24, 1900.

THE Catholic Fair is the theme for every tongue now. Crowds are visiting this scene of pleasure, and each visit finds them with fresh subjects for praise. The booths are really unique in their decorations and most amusing in their different and delightful features. This fair has been hitherto one of the events of the past years, but this fair is larger, more extensively patronized and more pleasing than any of its predecessors.

WE cannot procure any information with reference to the population of Bisbee. As proofs are accumulating that the census does not include but a fraction of the people residing in Bisbee, it is perhaps better that the census remains unknown. The population of Bisbee is estimated by conservative citizens who have resided here for years to be . . . It is shown by the proofs afforded in many ways, such as pay rolls, school census, property assessments and other incontestable proofs. It is seen to be large, and if the census work has not been done, then let any official misstatements be avoided altogether.

THE tough man is on evidence in this district now only to a very small extent. That is comparatively with former years. But where he is he is a curse to the county and a menace to his fellow man. To disagree with him is to be "up against it" at once. He seeks to murder, and his presence is the forerunner of trouble. When one of these men is killed by some man whom he expected to make a victim of, the community rejoices, and breathes freely. The fortunate individual who frees society from one of these blots, does so because he must kill or be killed, and on escaping from the fate that was designed for him, he receives properly the congratulations of the community. This was the case at the killing of Steve Rouse at Tombstone. The man was a terror, he meant to kill. The Chinamen who killed Rouse lies shot through the lungs and is of course in need of every care and attention. It was suggested to us last night that a sum of money should be raised and the Chinaman sent to Tucson and given the best attention. Several citizens offered to head the list. It is conceded that the Chinaman was a hard working fellow and this county one of the few remaining curses left and so our thanks and our help are due to him.

THE ONE-PRICE HEIFER.

Yew want buy that heifer, Zeb? I don't believe yew can;
I wouldn't sell that heifer, sir, to any Hvin' man;
No, sir, if yew should come an' lay a fifty in my hand
I'd go an' shet the stable door an' let that heifer stand;
I'd let her stand right where she is till she is old an' gray
Afore I'd sell one side of her, that's all I've got to say.
Yew heard I wanted to dispose? Yew must hev heard it wrong;
I'd buy a dozen like her, Zeb, if yew'd bring them along.

Of course I've got a lot of stock, more stock 'n what I need.
An' I am short of stable room, an' some what short of feed;
But ez for sellin' that there beast I wouldn't, no sires!
Let forty dollars come between that heifer, Zeb, an' me.
I am a one-price critter, Zeb, no man kin beat me down;
She's wuth a heap more'n forty, Zeb, ask any man in town.
Hi Hunker wants her purty bad, an' so does Deekin Hale,
But ez I said afore, of course, the heifer ain't for sale.

She's gentle an' she's good an' kind, an' slicker than an eel;
A child could milk her any time, she'd never raise a heel.
She never hooks nor jumps the fence, she never runs away.
An' comes around at milkin' time or reg'lar ez the day.
Yew'd order she the milk she gives, it's yellier, thick an' sweet.
An' ez for quantity, by gum, that heifer can't be beat!
They's junks of butter floatin' round inside the milkin' pail.
An' 'speakin' of her butter, Zeb—but then, she ain't for sale.

Yew say yew're bound to hev her, Zeb? Yew want her purty bad?
The slickest piece of cow-flesh, sir, a fanner ever had!
Wuth thirty dollars as she stands, an' not a dollar less.
For I'm a one-price critter, Zeb, yew'll find that out, I guess.
Wuth thirty dollars as she stands, I'll tell yew what I'll dew:
I'll swap her now for twenty-five—twixt an' an' her an' yew.
Jest twenty-five, no more or less, for I'm a one-price man.
An' if yew'd want to swap her back, way durn it, Zeb, yew can.
—Joe Cone, in N. Y. Sun.
